

Wireless Emporium Adds Aqua Skins Just in Time for Summer

Orange, CA – Wednesday, April 20, 2011 – Just in Time for the summer beach and pool season, Wireless Emporium has decided to bring in Aqua Skins to help their customers avoid damaging and even ruining their cell phones from water damage.

Also known as the Phone Dome, Aqua Skins are a thin film designed completely envelop your device and keep them safe from water, sand, sweat and dirt. Even with the Aqua Skin on, your phone remains completely functional, including the touch screen, the camera, and the microphones. This allows you to use your phone anywhere this summer with the peace of mind that you don't have to worry about an unfortunate accident ruining your phone.

"I think we've all known, or experienced firsthand, someone who has destroyed their phone by dropping it in a pool or leaving it out at the beach," said Eugene Ku, co-founder of Wireless Emporium. "The Aqua Skin is an inexpensive alternative to costly phone replacements or repairs."

With summer right around the corner and people flocking to beaches and neighborhood pools in droves, the Aqua Skin has arrived just in time. Not only will it protect your phone, but you can wow your friends by taking cool underwater pictures and videos.

The Aqua Skin sells for $12.99 and is designed to fit the iPhone 4 and similarly sized mobile devices. Its stretchy material wraps around the face of your phone and is sealed by a second reusable water tight strip that sticks to the back of the phone, adding no extra bulk at all to your phone.
